THINGS TO KNOW

Currently, athletes cannot profit from brand deals that use their name or image.

California cleared the way on Monday for college athletes to profit from brand sponsorships and endorsement deals, as Gov. Gavin Newsom signed legislation making it the first U.S. state to give them that potentially lucrative opportunity.

The legislation states that college athletes may profit from their "name, image or likeness." It could set up a showdown between the most populous U.S. state and the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the influential governing body for intercollegiate athletics, over the NCAA's long-standing rule that college athletes cannot be provided compensation.

The measure is due to take effect in 2023.

"Colleges and universities reap billions from these student athletes' sacrifices and success but block them from earning a single dollar. That's a bankrupt model — one that puts institutions ahead of the students they are supposed to serve," Newsom, a Democrat, said in a statement, referring to schools and the NCAA.

gram the "The Shop" alongside the show's host, Los Angeles Lakers star LeBron James, a vocal supporter of the measure.

"I'm so incredibly proud to share this moment with all of you," James, who bypassed college basketball and went straight from high school to the National Basketball Association, wrote on Twitter. "@gavinnewsom came to The Shop to do something that will change the lives for countless athletes who deserve it!"

The measure states that endorsement deals should not have any effect on student scholarships provided by colleges. It also permits student athletes to employ agents.

The measure could make California colleges more attractive to top recruits in high-revenue sports like football and basketball.

The bill's sponsors have said it also could encourage star players to stay in school rather than dropping out to turn professional.

The Indianapolis-based NCAA said the California law risks confusing current and future student athletes by creating different rules for colleges in different states.

"A patchwork of different laws from different states will make unattainable the goal of providing a fair and level playing field," the NCAA said in a statement.

The NCAA reported total revenues of more than $1 billion last year, about 80 percent of which came from television and marketing rights fees.

The Pac-12 Conference, whose member schools are located in Western states including California, said in a statement it is "disappointed" with the move, expressing concern about "many unintended consequences related to this professionalism" in college sports.

In a call with reporters on Monday, Newsom seemed unconcerned that the NCAA might sue or ban California colleges from NCAA competition and said the measure aims to establish a new status quo by addressing a social justice issue.

"This is going to force a radical departure from the existing rules and regulations around the NCAA. They're either going to be rolled over by it, public opinion and other states' rules, or they're going to have to wake up and lead," Newsom said.

New York, Colorado and South Carolina are considering similar legislation to follow in California's footsteps. REUTERS

Seinfeld wins copyright battle over hit Netflix series

2 Jerry Seinfeld has defeated a lawsuit claiming he stole the Netflix hit "Comedians in Cars Getting Coffee" from a former colleague who said he had pitched the idea for the show a decade before its debut. U.S. District Judge Alison Nathan in Manhattan on Monday said Christian Charles took too long to sue, having waited six years to file his lawsuit after Seinfeld had in 2012 rejected his copyright claim. The statute of limitations was three years. "Today's victory is a complete vindication," Seinfeld's lawyer, Orin Snyder, said in a statement. "Jerry created 'Comedians in Cars' and this lawsuit was nothing but a money-grab seeking to capitalize on the success of the show. We are pleased that the court saw through the noise." Charles, who said he had worked with Seinfeld since 1994, said he mentioned the idea to Seinfeld for "Comedians in Cars" as early as 2002. REUTERS

House Democrats subpoena Trump lawyer Giuliani

3 U.S. House of Representatives Democrats investigating whether to impeach President Donald Trump on Monday issued a subpoena to his lawyer Rudy Giuliani, seeking documents related to dealings with Ukraine by Oct. 15. The Democratic-led House Intelligence Committee issued the subpoena in consultation with two other House panels and said in a statement that Giuliani had acknowledged on television that he asked the government of Ukraine to "target" former Vice President Joe Biden. Democrats have been moving quickly since House Speaker Nancy Pelosi announced last Tuesday that she was formerly launching an impeachment inquiry. On Friday, the three committees announced that Secretary of State Mike Pompeo had been subpoenaed, and depositions scheduled for five other State Department officials. REUTERS

US opera singer Jessye Norman dead at 74

4 American opera singer Jessye Norman died on Monday at the age of 74, her family said, after suffering complications from a 2015 injury. Norman died at Mount Sinai St. Luke's Hospital in New York of septic shock and multiple organ failure related to complications from a spinal cord injury four years ago, the family said in a statement. Norman, a soprano, was born in the U.S. state of Georgia and spent much of her early career in Europe before making her debut at the Metropolitan Opera in New York in 1983. As one of the most popular opera singers of the 1980s and 1990s, she sang at the presidential inaugurations of Ronald Reagan and Bill Clinton, as well as the 60th birthday celebrations of Britain's Queen Elizabeth. "We are so proud of Jessye's musical achievements and the inspiration that she provided to audiences around the world that will continue to be a source of joy," the statement said. REUTERS

New York congressman expected to plead guilty in insider trading case

Rep. Chris Collins resigned Monday.

Chris Collins, a Republican U.S. congressman from New York state, resigned on Monday ahead of his expected guilty plea in a criminal insider trading case.

A senior Democratic aide speaking on condition of anonymity said Monday that the office of U.S. House of Representatives Speaker

Nancy Pelosi had received Collins' letter of resignation, and that it would become effective Tuesday.

Collins, 69, is scheduled to appear in Manhattan federal that day to enter his guilty plea, court records show. Collins' son, Cameron Collins, and another man, Stephen Zarsky, are also scheduled to plead guilty in the case on Thursday.

A spokesman for U.S. Attorney Geoffrey Berman, whose office is prosecuting the case, declined to comment, as did Mauro Wolfe, a lawyer for Zarsky.

Lawyers for Chris and Cameron Collins could not immediately be reached.

Chris Collins, an early supporter of President Donald Trump, represents New York's 27th Congressional District, which includes areas surrounding Buffalo and Rochester. He won reelection last November, three months after he was criminally charged.

The criminal case relates to Australian biotechnology company Innate Immunotherapeutics Ltd., a company for which Chris Collins sat on the board and held a 16.8 percent stake.

Prosecutors allege that in June 2017, while attending the congressional picnic at the White House, Collins learned in an email from Innate's chief executive that a clinical trial for its proposed multiple sclerosis drug MIS416 had failed.

Collins immediately told the trial failure news to his son, who in turn told his fiancée, Lauren Zarsky, and her parents, Dorothy and Stephen Zarsky, prosecutors allege.

Chris Collins did not trade his own Innate stock, which lost millions of dollars in value.

However, prosecutors said others used the insider information to avoid more than $768,000 in losses when Innate's share price plunged 92 percent after news of the drug's failure became public. REUTERS

The monument sculpture, which is cast in bronze, depicts a young African-American figure in streetwear, sitting astride a horse in a pose. In December, "Rumors of War" will be moved to the city of Richmond to its permanent home in front of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts on Arthur Ashe Boulevard. GETTY IMAGES

US House impeachment inquiry to intensify; Trump remains defiant

President says leader of inquiry should be arrested for "treason."

U.S. President Donald Trump on Monday intensified his attacks on a lawmaker leading the House of Representatives' impeachment inquiry, suggesting that congressman Adam Schiff should be arrested for "treason."

Witnesses are due to testify in the House this week in hearings related to Trump's request that a foreign power investigate Joe Biden, one of the leading Democratic candidates seeking to challenge him in 2020.

A U.S. intelligence official filed a whistleblower complaint citing a July 25 telephone call in which Trump asked Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky to investigate Biden and his son Hunter, who sat on the board of a Ukrainian gas company.

The whistleblower has not been publicly identified.

In a series of Twitter posts on Monday morning, Trump appeared to reference comments made by House Intelligence Committee Chairman Schiff during a committee hearing last week.

In those comments, Schiff says the call to Zelensky "reads like a classic organized crime shake-down" and parodies the president's remarks.

"Rep. Adam Schiff illegally made up a FAKE & terrible statement, pretended it to be mine as the most important part of my call to the Ukrainian President, and read it aloud to Congress and the American people. It bore NO relationship to what I said on the call. Arrest for Treason?" Trump wrote in a post on Twitter.

A spokesman for Schiff did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

Monday's post followed a string of tweets from Trump on Sunday evening in which he said he wanted to meet the whistleblower, who he called "my accuser," as well as "the person who illegally gave this information" to him or her.

Trump has also accused the whistleblower and White House officials who gave the whistleblower information of being spies and suggested they may be guilty of treason.

Democrats accuse Trump of pressuring a vulnerable U.S. ally to get dirt on a rival for personal political gain. The phone call with Zelensky came after Trump froze nearly $400 million in aid intended to help Ukraine deal with an insurgency by Russian-backed separatists in the eastern part of the country. The aid was later provided.

The Intelligence Committee is leading the inquiry in the Democratic-led House, which could lead to approval of articles of impeachment against the Republican president and a subsequent trial in the Republican-led Sen-

"He has already admitted that he contacted a foreign leader and discussed with him ginning up a fake story about one of his political opponents."

David Cicilline

ate on whether to remove Trump from office.

Schiff said on Sunday he expects the whistleblower to appear before the panel very soon.

Some House Democrats said articles of impeachment against Trump could move to the House floor as soon as next month.

"In my mind, it's several weeks," House Judiciary Committee member David Cicilline told reporters last week. "He has already admitted that he contacted a foreign leader and discussed with him ginning up a fake story about one of his political opponents."

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

“Don’t Get ANY Surgery Until You See This...”

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It's Best “Treatment Formula” For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going to be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it's complex. In other words, it's not a simple, easy fix.

But I'm sure you already know that. Or you wouldn't be reading this.

That's the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It's amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

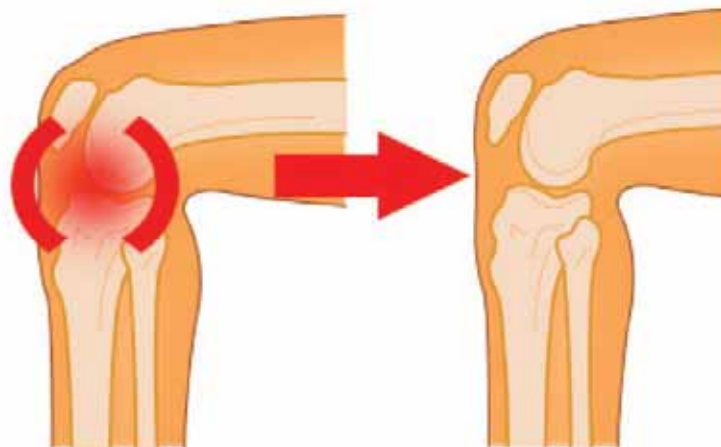

While I can't give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD “Treatment Formula” A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW...

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these “gel injections” without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patient. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here's What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our “Treatment Formula.”

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what's going on and what is your best course of action... step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what's going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I'm out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

DOT plans to roll out 14th Street 'busway' this week

Judges gave the long-stalled project a green light.

It looks like the 14th Street busway will finally roll out this week following a court ruling on Friday. As Streetsblog reported, a panel of judges from New York State Supreme Court's Appellate Division voted 3-2 to overturn an Aug. 9 ruling that blocked the city from starting the pilot program. Not long after Friday's order was handed down, Mayor Bill de Blasio and the Department of Transportation confirmed plans to begin implementing the busway on Thursday, Oct. 3.

"New Yorkers who ride the M14 are about to see their bus line transformed from one of the city's slowest into one of the fastest, practically overnight," Transportation Alternatives' Director of Advocacy Tom De Vito said in a statement. "This should bring an end to the legal shenanigans that have been holding up these improvements for months on end."

The long-stalled busway was originally pitched as a way of supplementing the L train during its planned shutdown. After the shutdown was called off, the city went forward with its plans for the busway, but a lawsuit from area residents who claimed the city had failed to conduct an environmental review for the work immediately challenged the project. In August, 6sqft reported that the pilot program had been given a green light, but just a few days after a new lawsuit was filed, arguing that eliminating bus stops along the M14 route created unfair burdens for disabled individuals. On Aug. 9, a judge granted a last-minute appeal and blocked the project again.

During the 18-month pilot program set to begin this week, 14th Street will have four lanes — two in each direction — with the center lanes dedicated to bus and truck traffic and curbside lanes reserved for loading and local pick-ups and drop-offs. Private through-traffic will be banned on the block between Third and Ninth Avenues between 6 a.m. and 10 p.m. every day.

This story was provided to Metro through an agreement with 6sqft. Visit www.6sqft.com for more stories.

L train project running ahead of schedule

The first phase of L train tunnel construction has been completed ahead of schedule, bringing the end date of the entire Canarsie Tunnel rehabilitation up to April 2020, Gov. Cuomo announced Sunday. That's about three months earlier than expected.

The first phase of the tunnel rehabilitation was completed in just five months, and on budget.

"Today we saw up close what happens when you abandon the old ways of doing things and think outside the box: You get the work done better, faster and cheaper," Gov. Cuomo said in a statement. "And in this case, you get a better and safer tunnel than before."

Repairs to the L train tunnel include a new cable system and fire-resistant cables, a new wall structure made with an

Until the L line rehabilitation is completed, the MTA suggests taking these alternative routes:

- Enhanced 7GM subway service lines on weeknights and weekends, including extended M service.
- Enhanced bus service on 14th Street, including additional weeknight and weekend M14 Select Bus Service.
- Free subway transfers to make connections easier between Livonia St L and Junius St 3, and from Broadway G to Hewes St JM or Lorimer St JM.

industrial fiber-reinforced polymer, new tracks, new pipes, controls, discharge lines and a new fiber-optic monitoring system.

Besides the tunnel updates, the MTA is adding three substations for more power, and new elevators at the Bedford Ave and 1-Ave stations. BECCA GLASSER-BAKER

California Pizza Kitchen is giving away 10,000 free pizzas

It's official: Pizza is Americans' favorite food.

What better way to celebrate National Pizza Month than free pizza?

California Pizza Kitchen (CPK) is teaming up with Grubhub to give away 10,000 CPK Take and Bake Pizzas on Tuesday Oct. 1, starting at 11 a.m.

California Pizza Kitchen and Grubhub took to social media to share this exciting news.

There is no minimum purchase required to get your free pie. This offer can be redeemed once per user. Pizza lovers can choose one of the three classics with regular hand-tossed crust only. Their choices are the classic, Original BBQ Chicken Pizza, Pepperoni Pizza or Cheese Pizza.

In addition to free pizza, CPK shared its third annual nationwide pizza survey, conducted by Harris Poll, all about America's pizza habits. It turns out, if Americans could only eat one food for the rest of their lives, pizza would be it!

The love that Americans have for pizza runs deeper than a deep-dish pizza. The survey shows that 40 percent of Americans would willingly give up dating for a year in order to receive free pizza whenever they wanted. About a quarter of Americans would go on a date just to have someone pay for their pizza.

Millennials' dedication to pizza is so strong that over 46 percent of them have worked out so they could indulge in pizza. Additionally, over half of Americans and 61 percent of millennials would be willing to give up social media for a year to get free pizza whenever they desired. Although there are a ton of pizza lovers out there willing to do what it takes for a slice, pizza lovers are not willing to cross some lines.

Pizza lovers have strong opinions on pizza, including the age-old debate that's sparked wars on social media: Do Americans really like pineapple on pizza? This study shows that 38 percent of Americans think pineapple on pizza should be illegal.

Another debate in the pizza community is, is pizza actually an acceptable breakfast? Sixty-five percent of pizza lovers think it is an acceptable breakfast. Sixty-nine percent of them prefer to eat pizza hot, whereas 23 prefer leftover pizza cold.

Besides the free pizza promotion on Oct. 1, pizza lovers will be able to get free delivery on all CPK orders via Grubhub for the entire month (with a minimum order of $15). REUTERS

BRIEF

Italy's ruling parties call for lowering voting age to 16

Italy's coalition parties said on Monday they were in favor of reducing the minimum voting age to 16, in a move analysts said would increase the electorate by about 1 million people.

Italy would be the second E.U. country after Austria to lower the minimum age to participate in national elections below 18, according to the U.S. CIA's "World Factbook."

Former Prime Minister Enrico Letta triggered the debate on Monday

when he called for the voting age to be immediately lowered after young people flooded the streets of cities around the world to demand political action to counter climate change.

"It is a way to tell those young people...that we take them seriously," Letta, an academic and member of the co-ruling Democratic Party (PD), told daily newspaper La Repubblica.

Currently Italians have to be 18 to elect representatives to the lower house of parliament, and 25 to vote in elections for the upper house, the Senate.

His call was supported by PD chief Nicola Zingaretti and Luigi Di Maio, the leader of the other governing party, the anti-establishment 5-Star Movement.

"Young people should be respected, listened to and put at the center of politics," Di Maio wrote on Facebook.

Several E.U. countries, including Germany and Scotland, allow 16-year-olds to vote in local elections, but Italy would be the first large European state to allow it in parliamentary elections. REUTERS

CROSSING YOUR LEGS ON A CROWDED TRAIN

It's annoying when people cross their legs on a crowded train. They see the train is crowded, they don't care. When standing and preparing to get off the train, be careful not to take the crossed leg with you. Step over the legs very carefully and say "excuse me." Or, uncross your legs to allow more standing room and cross your legs at home!

'I do not want to touch politics'
DEXTER HOLLAND

The leader, vocalist and guitarist of punk-rock band The Offspring chatted with Metro on what he sings about and why he does not like politics.

STANISLAV KUPTSOV,
letters@metro.us

If you would meet a person who had never heard about The Offspring, what would you tell them?

That we have a small band, and we make energetic music, I guess. Well, I would add that they're missing out on a lot by not knowing anything about us. But to be honest, the question puzzles me. I've never had such a conversation before [laughs].

What do you talk about with your fans through your songs?

The main thing is that we are a punk-rock band. We want people to learn thinking on their own, make their own choices and not just do something because someone says so. And create their own path.

Almost every song you have has a background, a story that happened in reality. Can you give an example of one that talks about something valuable for you personally?

One of the examples would be "The Kids Aren't All Right." It is about the fate of children who did not turn out to have good lives. The inspiration came from the situation when I drove past one house in my neighbourhood, and thought, "Here Jim grew up, he died in a car accident... and the other friend was killed." I started having those memories, and I wrote a song.

"Pretty Fly" talks about a guy who thinks he is cool, but looks more like an idiot.

It seems to me that we live in a world in which people talk about something all the time. That is happening because of the internet. And often people talk without thinking. I did not see this five years ago. It's interesting to watch how the world is changing in this direction. And I think this is a problem.

Let's talk about you. Punks are always very bright, even shocking onstage. But what about your everyday life?

When I go out to the crowd, I want to shout, to be bright. But this is an image. In ordinary life, we are not necessarily the same. In fact, we are a little more normal. And certainly we are not shocking anyone.

What can you say about modern punks in general? How different are they from those of the '80s and '90s?

This is a difficult question, because punks have always been very different. Some were involved in political issues, others liked to sing something realistic, like the Sex Pistols. Others were very energetic... In short, there are many interpretations. The main difference is that the age of the internet has come.

People sing right from the bedroom, and they can do pretty well. One person can promote himself. It was impossible 20 years ago.

Are there any topics that are forbidden for you onstage?

I strive to ensure that people have a good time at our concerts, receive a charge of positive emotions. Therefore, I do not want to touch politics or try to say what needs to be done, how people should behave. In our lyrics we don't want to go that far, either.

Music is a significant part of your life. If not that, what would you be doing?

I think I would become a biologist, although I did not study this subject in-depth at school.

Or maybe I would become a pilot. What? Is it dangerous? Planes are falling? Well, there is no turning back. I actually piloted, it was quite fun.

There are so many heroes in our world right now. People land planes on a cornfield, take out children from burning houses. Is there someone special for you, a hero whom you could single out?

Oh my goodness... A real hero? Difficult to say...

Well, I can immediately say that you are mine. You are cheering me up with your music!
Yes, really [laughs]? Thank you!

I'm serious. Many people work in offices and live with grumpy spouses. What would you advise them? Personally, I think they just should tune in to your songs!

Many people come up to me and say, "Your songs give me hope!" Often people find in them some important message for themselves. When I hear that my songs helped in a difficult life situation, I'm happy. At such moments, I am very grateful to the fans. It means that my songs find a destination. So, listening to music is good advice.

Everyone thinks that it is cool to form part of The Offspring. But tell the truth, what's really cool about it, and what do you dislike?

I definitely have nothing to complain about. I have the best job in the world. I am the vocalist of a punk-rock band. And I sing on the stage in many countries. Sometimes you get very tired, especially when traveling for too long. A trip to a concert could take 12 hours.

A NEW KIND OF SIPPABLE TEQUILA

A new kind of tequila is in town, and it's called Cincoro.

In July 2016, a group of friends with ties to the basketball industry grabbed dinner. Over the course of the meal, all five friends bonded over their mutual love of tequila. However, they couldn't seem to find a tequila that tasted exactly how they wanted. By the time the meal was over, the friends had decided to team up to make their dream tequila, and that's how Cincoro Tequila was born.

I spoke with a few of Cincoro's founders about the newly launched brand. The brand was created by Michael Jordan (yes, you read that right), Jeanie Buss of the Los Angeles Lakers, Wes Edens of the Milwaukee Bucks, and Emilia Fazzalari and Wyc Grousbeck of the Boston Celtics. Although the brand has equal partners, Fazzalari is the CEO of the company.

of a tequila that could be sipped like whiskey, and they set out to create a smooth, rich and complex drink. From my tasting experience, I can confirm their success. I never thought I would see the day when I could casually sip on tequila like I do with wine — and it's a total game-changer. From a taste perspective, I don't think I've ever had tequila with such an inviting, lingering flavor. As I write this, I'm still reminiscing about sipping the drink.

When I spoke with the founders, I asked what was the best way to drink Cincoro, and they suggested sipping the luxurious drink neat, or on the rocks (using a whiskey cube). When it came to pairing, Fazzalari told me she sips it like wine with a variety of items for dinner. Next time you have some wine that's not sitting well with your meal (we've all been there), consider swapping it out for tequila.

When it came to creating the taste profile, the team behind the brand told me it took quite some time to perfect their flavor vision. Their spirit is made with 100 percent Weber Blue Agave from private farms in both the highlands and lowlands of Jalisco, Mexico.

The brand launched four different varieties of tequila: the Blanco, the Reposado, the Añejo and the Extra Añejo. The difference between each drink depends on how long they've been barrel-aged in underground cellars. The Blanco is not aged, the Reposado is aged from eight to 10 months, the Añejo from 24 to 28 months, and the Extra Añejo between 40 and 44 months. Although all four tequilas are wonderful, my favorite was the Reposado. I loved the vanilla notes of this particular variety.

Even though the brand just officially launched, it's already won 16 medals across a range of competitions.

All eyes on Callaway as future remains uncertain

The Mets manager is on the hot seat as the offseason begins.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

A sweep of the Atlanta Braves provided a positive note to end the New York Mets' 2019 season on Sunday. Despite not reaching the playoffs for a third straight season, Mickey Callaway's men finished at 86-76 for just their third winning campaign in the past 11 years.

As noted earlier, there were plenty of positives to take out of the season.

Pete Alonso set the major-league single-season record for most home runs hit by a rookie at 53.

Jacob deGrom looks as though he's a lock for his second straight NL Cy Young Award.

Amed Rosario took a huge step in his career development while Jeff McNeil and JD Davis could be two of the league's better natural hitters.

Michael Conforto managed to stay healthy for a second consecutive season while posting a career-high 33 home runs.

All that, and they still couldn't make the playoffs, which brings the heat on Callaway as the manager.

The 44-year-old — who just completed his second year as the Mets' bench boss — continues to claim that he's not worried about his job status.

"I don't have any anxiety," Callaway said, per the New York Post. "I'm proud of what we did this year... I'm proud of how hard I worked and I left everything on the field."

While he improved his win total by nine in 2019 compared to last season, Callaway's in-game management and handling of the bullpen put his standing on shaky ground.

For a team that finished just three games back of the final NL Wild Card spot, some of those questionable decisions the manager made are magnified even further.

He was loyal to a fault to closer Edwin Diaz, who put up one of the worst seasons ever by a reliever in MLB history by allowing 15 home runs in 58 innings of work during his debut season in Queens.

Diaz headlined a struggling bullpen that was not

If the Mets are keen on making a change, they couldn't have picked a better offseason to do so.

The Chicago Cubs and manager Joe Maddon parted ways on Sunday after five seasons and one World Series title together. As one of the most successful managers of this generation, the 65-year-old is not going to be unemployed for long.

Maddon has won everywhere he's gone, leading the Tampa Bay Rays to their first-ever American helped by the manager's decision-making.

That same loyalty Callaway showed Diaz extended, for the most part, to veterans Robinson Cano and Todd Frazier — whose struggling bats were often the manager's first choice ahead of Davis or Dominic Smith.

Those were key decisions throughout the season that cost the Mets invaluable games in the standings.

It's why SNY's Andy Martino's report on Thursday didn't come as much of a shock to many.

Mets sources said that they would "be surprised" if Callaway is the manager of the team in 2020.

League pennant in 2008 before helping the Cubs win their first World Series crown in 108 years.

Joe Girardi remains an intriguing name for Mets fans, too.

The former Yankees manager has proven that he can win in the Big Apple and can handle the pressure that comes with it. A no-nonsense attitude that comes with his coaching style could also be vital to help establish some order in the bullpen.

As it stands, the San Diego Padres and Pittsburgh Pirates are the only teams with managerial vacancies after Andy Green and Clint Hurdle were axed.

Knee Arthritis Pain?

10 Year Medical Study Reveals Knee Replacement Avoided With Newest Medical Treatment In 3 of 4 Cases

If you suffer with painful knee arthritis — science may have finally found the answer you've been looking for.

Here's why: What should be looked at as a landmark and startling study by the medical world, research published by a noted Orthopedic Surgeon in the Journal Of Knee Surgery revealed that 75% of those with Grade IV (often called "bone on bone") knee arthritis were able to avoid the surgery more than 7 years and beyond.

When doctors accurately placed FDA approved lubricating medicines using advanced imaging into almost 2000 arthritic knees (like putting oil on a rusty door hinge or automobile engine) the majority of patients actually responded well enough to avoid major and complex knee replacement surgery. But, the procedure needs to be done by experienced doctors using the best technology for optimum technique and results.

Know this: This is an FDA-cleared REAL medical treatment that must be given by a skilled professional.

These special treatments are now available right here in NYC for Tri-State area arthritis sufferers. And many insurances, even Medicare, cover these treatments for qualified patients.

More Good News: NYC Pain MD, the NYC area's "go to" medical group for non-surgical arthritis pain management is now offering these simple, in-office treatment programs and offers a No-Cost, No-Obligation screening appointment to find out if you qualify. To speak with a scheduling coordinator about a screening appointment, just call 877-228-5490.

Jones shows poise, but is the defense fixed?

For a team that was the butt of numerous jokes at the start of the 2019 NFL season, the New York Giants are just one game out of first in the NFC East after four weeks.

Daniel Jones moved to 2-0 as the Giants' starter after a 24-3 victory over the lowly Washington Redskins.

He wasn't nearly as sterling as he was in Week 3 against the Tampa Bay Buccaneers when he went 23-36 for 336 yards and two touchdowns. But Jones did more than plenty for the Giants on Sunday at MetLife Stadium.

The 22-year-old completed 23-of-31 passes for 225 yards and a touchdown. However, he had some issues with underthrowing his receivers — which played a large part in his two interceptions on the afternoon.

But Jones continues to show poise beyond his years in the pocket as he didn't let the Giants' lead derail.

A large part of that has to do with the athleticism he brings under center.

While Eli Manning struggled beyond the Giants' flimsy offensive line, Jones can scramble to open up more offensive opportunities. He picked up 33 yards on five rushes against Washington.

He received plenty of help from running back Wayne Gallman, who stepped in nicely for the injured Saquon Barkley.

The third-year rusher out of Clemson picked up 63 rushing and 55 passing yards with two total touchdowns.

What may be the most promising figure for Giants fans, though, was the defense allowing just three points and forcing four turnovers.

Janoris Jenkins — who was burnt by Mike Evans in Week 3 — had two interceptions on the day while Ryan Connelly and Jabrill Peppers added picks as well. Peppers returned his for a touchdown off rookie Dwayne Haskins.

It wasn't all good news for the Giants defense, however. Connelly — who has been the defensive signal-caller at linebacker this season — might have torn his ACL during the win on Sunday.

There is obviously a grain of salt that comes with the Giants' stellar defensive performance, considering the Redskins are looking like one of the worst offensive teams in the NFL.

But this was just what the doctor ordered for a Giants defense that was getting mauled throughout the first three weeks of the season.

New York had one of the NFL's worst passing defenses, allowing the second-most yards through the air and eight touchdowns prior to Week 4. JOSEPH PANTORNO
